50,000,000 Expected To Cast Votes Tuesday

FORECAST BASED ON TIGHT RACE FOR PRESIDENT

Intensive Effort To Get Out Voters Figures In Prediction

SERVICE MEN INCLUDED

Total Of 30,000,000 Men And Women To Stay Away From Polls

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—Simon Michelet, president of the National-Get-Out-The-Vote Club, today predicted a vote of more than fifty million—a new all-time high—in the national election on November 7.

The estimate, which is higher than has been generally made, is based on Michelet's canvass of all available figures and 20 years of experience in the study of voting trends.

"I base my estimate in part on the fact that there are many states believed to be close, which results in intensive efforts to get out the vote; the larger percentage registration in many states and a belief that a greater percentage of the eligible voters will vote this year than in 1940," he said.

The estimate includes the service vote, variously estimated at from two million 200 thousand to three million.

49,000,000 In 1940

In the 1940 contest between President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie a total of 49,815,312 voted for president. Actually, over fifty million votes were cast—but 1,000,000 voted for lesser candidates and did not even cast a ballot in the presidential fight.

Michelet, who has been leading a crusade to increase the number of people voting, said there are over eighty-one million people eligible to vote in the election. Thus, on his estimate, thirty million people will not bother to exercise the right of franchise.

One factor in the probable increase in voting, Michelet said, is the liberal registration privileges granted service men in many states. New York state, he said, blanketed all service men on the registration lists. Some other states permit a relative to register for a service man, while still others accept their vote and automatically register them.

Big Service Vote

"It is very likely that the soldier vote will be larger than if the service men were in civilian life in time of peace," he said. "A large percentage of this group of young men does not vote in peacetime—but every encouragement has been given them to vote this year."

Another factor in the predicted increase, he said, is the fact that the potential vote—those that

U. S. MOVES TO BOLSTER CHINA

Increased War Effort In Orient Objective Of New Nelson Visit

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—The American government's hope of salvaging the "Chinese situation" and building up China's war effort against Japan, was reflected today in the announcement that Donald Nelson and a staff of production experts are returning to Chungking shortly.

The White House announcement of Nelson's new mission to China came a few days after the recall of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell from Chungking which raised some doubt about China's future role in the war.

Stilwell was called from China at the request of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek after the two had reportedly differed. Removal of this clash of personalities, Washington observers said, apparently will set up a more harmonious background for Nelson when he returns to Chungking.

Meanwhile, these developments entered the picture as President

20,000 WORKERS STRIKE AND 17 PLANTS CLOSE

DETROIT, Nov. 3—Twenty thousand members of the Mechanical Educational Society of America carried out their scheduled strike this morning at 10 a. m. and one hour later 17 of the 20 Detroit war plants affected were shut down.

The strike was called by Matthew Smith, national secretary of the MESA, in sympathy with a strike over a jurisdictional dispute with the UAW-CIO which has closed 13 plants in Toledo.

The stoppage is the fourth major disruption of arms production by the MESA since Pearl Harbor. William Brooker, MESA attorney, predicted that the strike would spread to Cleveland this afternoon. Twenty-five thousand persons in 15 plants would be affected.

PICKAWAY GOES OVER TOP IN WAR FUND DRIVE

Pickaway township Friday had become the second district to go "over the top" in the Pickaway county War Fund drive.

Community Chest trustees announced Pickaway solicitors reported Thursday they had reached the district quota of $988.

Chairman of the Pickaway campaign is Mrs. John A. Wolford and solicitors are Miss Gladys Rader, Mrs. Paul Adkins, James Pierce, Frank Grayes and Turney Pontius. Deer Creek township was the first district to meet its quota.

Trustees will meet at Circleville high school Friday night to receive additional returns on the city-county drive, which is scheduled to end at midnight Saturday.

SON DECLARES SEN. GLASS NOT BACKING FDR

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—A telegram from Powell Glass, son of Senator Carter Glass of Virginia in which he said he had "every reason to believe" that his father had never announced his support of a fourth term for President Roosevelt was made public in New York today by William Lavarre, Virginia-born writer and explorer.

Sensor Glass himself is ill and the controversy developed when Lavarre questioned a White House statement made earlier this week that the 86-year-old Virginian had reversed his stand of four years ago when he opposed a third term for Mr. Roosevelt and now favors a fourth term.

"Neither Harry Hopkins nor any one else speaks for Senator Carter Glass," Powell Glass telegraphed Lavarre. "So far as I know, my father has not made any announcement in favor of a fourth term. I have every reason to believe he has not done so."

Powell Glass is general manager of the Lynchburg, Va., "News" and "Daily Advance," both newspapers are owned by the senator.

He pointed out in his telegram to Lavarre that so far the "News" and "Daily Advance" have consistently refused to announce support of a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

O'DANIEL STIRS RIOT IN TEXAS

Trouble Flares As Foe Of New Deal Makes Speech In Houston

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 3—U. S. Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel (D) Texas, charged today that "communists and labor racketeers" deliberately inspired a riot while he made an anti-administration address in the Houston civic auditorium last night.

"It was an attempt by 125 organized rioters to prevent me from speaking," O'Daniel said. "The men who started the trouble were communists and labor racketeers."

The trouble started as O'Daniel, who has been stumping Texas against the New Deal, stepped to the speaker's platform.

The auditorium soon was a bedlam. Fitted battles raged and knives flashed as pandemonium reigned and a crowd of between 4,000 and 5,000 persons who had assembled to hear the senator lashed the New Deal.

A number of eggs were hurled in O'Daniel's direction, but none struck him and the speaker remained on the platform until he completed his 30-minute address, which was broadcast over an NBC hookup.

O'Daniel was escorted from the auditorium by plain clothes members of the Houston police department after he had been threatened

GIVES LIQUOR TO INDIANS AND GETS SENTENCE

SIoux CITY, Ia., Nov. 3—Charles P. Seabert of Tama, Iowa, today started a nine-month prison term for giving liquor to Indians.

Seabert, who pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Henry N. Graven, was accused of giving liquor to Indian girls. One of the girls walked in front of a railroad train and was killed.

DEWEY ENTERS FINAL STRETCH IN VOTE DRIVE

Tells Country Time Has Come To Put An End To Secret Deals

THOUSAND CLUB FLAYED

Pennsylvania Governor Believes State Will Go Republican

ABOARD DEWEY CAMPAIGN TRAIN EN ROUTE TO ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 3—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey homeward bound from a whirlwind tour of Massachusetts, Maryland and Pennsylvania, entered the final stretch of his drive for the White House today with the assertion that "it is time to bring an end to government by secret deals."

Cheered by the enormous crowds which greeted him in Buffalo, Boston, Baltimore and the anthracite section of Pennsylvania, the Republican presidential nominee planned to work today on his climax speech in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Since he left Albany last Tuesday, Gov. Dewey has delivered thirteen speeches and been greeted by crowds conservatively estimated at more than a million, of whom 600,000 turned out in Massachusetts; 300,000 in normally Democratic Maryland; 100,000 in Pennsylvania, and about 30,000 in the upstate New York cities of Buffalo and Rochester. The Republican nominee received his greatest encouragement of the trip from the Republican governors of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

Saltonstall Hopeful Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts is running for the U. S. senate and leaders of both parties admit he will poll a tremendous vote. That should aid the Dewey-Bricker ticket. In addition, Boston, with its large Irish-Catholic population, reacted favorably to Gov. Dewey's slashing attack there on the alleged New Deal Communist alliance.

Gets Good News The best news, however, was given the Republican nominee by Governor Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, whose 35 electoral votes long have been regarded by many GOP leaders as the decisive bloc in the campaign. Gov. Martin told Gov. Dewey that:

Allegheny county, which President Roosevelt carried by 107,000 in 1940, will give the President a majority of less than 30,000 this year, Luzerne and Lackawanna counties, where 100,000 persons turned out to greet Mr. Dewey last night, will show a change of 30,000 votes from four years ago—in favor of the Republicans.

The Republican vote outside Philadelphia and Allegheny county will be considerably larger than in 1940.

Gov. Martin told newspapermen aboard the Dewey train that he

HSIA APPROVES YANK RECALL OF STILWELL

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—President Roosevelt's recall of Gen. Joseph Stilwell from China today was termed the "only correct thing possible in the circumstances" by Dr. C. L. Hsia, chief representative of the Chinese Ministry of Information in the United States.

In a formal statement, Dr. Hsia referred to President Roosevelt's description of the withdrawal as the result of a conflict of personalities. He added that published reports of the Chinese communist issue and of possible reforms in the Chinese government were separate controversies.

Dr. Hsia said the Chungking government is making efforts to solve these problems and asked that any "reform in the Chinese government should not be made a condition of wartime cooperation" between the United States and China.

Roosevelt Prepares For Fighting Windup To Bid for Fourth Term

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—President Roosevelt prepared today to depart on his invasion of New England, with a fighting fourth term bid windup in Boston tomorrow night, after telling the nation that the wartime presidential campaign "has been marred" by "whisperings and rumors . . . trumped up in an attempt to panic the people on election day."

"But the American people are not panicked easily," Mr. Roosevelt said. "Pearl Harbor proved that."

"This election will not be decided on a basis of malignant murmurings—or shouts. It will be settled on the basis of the record."

Sixth Major Address

The chief executive, making his sixth major address of the campaign, spoke to a nation-wide audience by radio from the White House Thursday evening.

At the outset he disclosed that "the advance toward Japan is many months ahead of our own optimistic schedule," and that despite the hazards attending a military operation at such a great distance from the base of supplies, and possible future set-backs, "ultimately our advance will stop only in Tokyo itself."

Turning to the European theatre of war, Mr. Roosevelt declared that the war against Germany will be prosecuted without letup through the winter.

"We do not expect to have a winter lull in Europe," he asserted. "We expect to keep striking—to keep the enemy on the move—to hit again and again—to give him no rest—and to drive through to the final objective—Berlin."

Urges Production He voiced a plea for still greater production at home to meet the needs of the critical months that lie ahead.

"Delays in the performance of our job at home mean prolonging the war," he declared. "They will mean an increase in the total price we must pay in the lives of our men."

Mr. Roosevelt said he had hoped to go to Cleveland, Detroit, and to upper New York state, in the present campaign but that his responsibilities as president and commander-in-chief had made it vital that he remain at the White House.

"I am disappointed about this—but, as I told the American people when I first became President, I follow the principle of first things first; and this war comes first," he said.

In charging that a whispering campaign has been conducted in the election, the President said:

"There have been some other aspects of this campaign which have been distasteful to all of us."

"Campaign Marred" This campaign has been marred by even more than the usual crop of whisperings and rumors. Some of these get into print, in certain types of newspapers; others are traded about, secretly, in one black market after another. I do not propose to answer in kind.

"The voting record proves that the American people pay little attention to whispering campaigns. They have paid little attention to all the malignant rumors of enemy origin which have flooded this country during this war—and I am sure they will treat the present whispering with the same contempt."

"As we approach election day, more wicked charges may be made with the hope that someone or somebody will gain momentary advantage."

Expects Accusations "Hysterical last minute accusations of sensational revelations, are trumped up in an attempt to panic the people on election day."

The President declared that the election, instead, "will be settled on the basis of the record," and cited the "tremendous production

HOTELS IN NEW YORK TO LIMIT GUESTS' TIME

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—New York hotels planned today to limit the stays of civilian transients to five days. The hotel association has suggested the "rationing" plan be placed in operation by all its 197 hotel members, with the provision that hotel managers would be permitted to make exceptions to the rule where special circumstances existed.

YANKEES LASH AT DEFENSES IN HURTGEN AREA

Allied Air Arms Deal Devastating Blows At Hun Cities

REDS NEARING BUDAPEST

MacArthur Announces End Of Leyte And Samar Campaign Near

The American First Army surged forward deeper into the Reich today along the route to Cologne, lashing out against the Nazi defenses in the Hurtgen area, southeast of Aachen, with renewed blows to follow up an initial attack launched yesterday.

A Reuter front dispatch reported continued progress in the drive which already has carried the Yanks more than two miles forward and quoted a headquarters announcement which said the First Army now has taken more than 200,000 prisoners since D-day, the greatest number captured by any Allied army.

The Yanks commanded by Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges encountered stiffening German resistance as they smashed up to Hurtgen after capturing the towns of Vossenack and Gemeter.

British and American forces some 40 miles northwest of Aachen simultaneously pushed forward in the direction of Venlo, on the Dutch-German frontier, moving forward to Meijel.

Approach Meijel An official headquarters communique said that the Allied troops were within 2,000 yards of Meijel.

A Reuter front dispatch said that British patrols had driven their way back into Meijel but that there was no contact with German forces.

At the western end of the European battlefield British and Canadian troops scored steady progress in the tri-phased campaign to rid Walcheren island in the Scheldt estuary of Nazis.

One force driving a point from the region of Westkapelle bypassed Domburg and reached a point within two miles of the port of Flushing where British commando forces continued to battle German hold-out units.

Stiff clashes also were fought between Canadian troops and Germans at the western end of the Walcheren-Beverland causeway.

Resistance Ceases

Southward, headquarters announced, German resistance east of the Leopold Canal has ceased. Mopping up operations were continued inside Zebrugg.

On the front in France, troops of the sixth army group liberated the town of Baçarot in the Vosges foothills and freed the villages of Gelacourt and Deneuvre, near Baccarat.

Farther south, the town of La Bourgonce was seized despite heavy German resistance.

The German industrial city of Dusseldorf and other target areas within the Reich lay in new ruins. Allied air arms delivered devastating sledge-hammer blows against the vitals of the Nazi war machine, striking in support of the mounting ground offensive on all fronts.

During the night, more than 1,000 Royal Air Force heavy bombers raided Dusseldorf, a Ruhr valley rail center and site of numerous engineering and armament plants.

Osnabruck Hit

Speedy Mosquito bombers carried out another attack on Osnabruck.

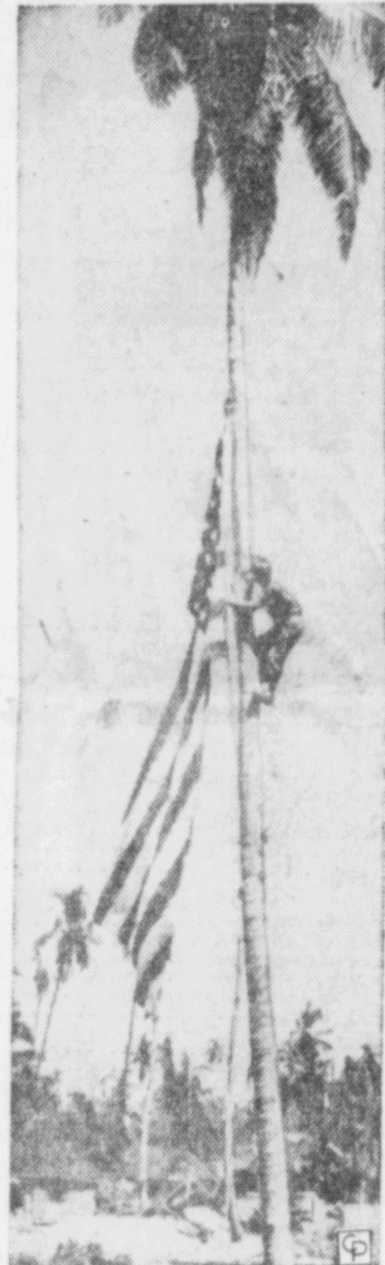

The Dusseldorf raid was described as the heaviest yet hurled against that city. More than 4,450 tons of bombs were dropped.

The night assaults followed a record daylight sky battle over Germany in which 183 German planes were shot down and another 25 destroyed on the ground.

Observers stated the Nazi losses may amount to half of the enemy's defensive air strength.

The huge air battle resulted when German fighters sought to intercept an armada of American Eighth Air Force bombers, under

MUD-SLINGING STAGE NEARS IN OHIO CAMPAIGN

By International News Service

Ohio gubernatorial campaign, with just four more days to go, approached the mud-slinging stage today with Frank J. Lausche, the Democratic candidate, charging that Republican James Garfield Stewart "commits fraud on the voter" and Stewart charging that Lausche "would foist on Ohio the days of Davey hoodling."

Governor Bricker, meanwhile, again took time out from his own vice presidential campaign to urge Stewart's election in a letter mailed today to 16,000 GOP workers.

"The New Deal candidate for governor is attempting to win on a purely fictitious issue," Bricker wrote. "This state has been and is free from bossism. I have full confidence in the state organization and in Jim Stewart's ability to continue the same kind of government that the voters of the state have so overwhelmingly approved."

Both were speaking in territories nominally in the camp of their opponent, with Stewart continuing his invasion of Cleveland, Lausche's home balliwick, while Lausche moved from Circleville and Chillicothe to Wellston and Tronton today.

Meanwhile Senator Robert A. Taft, fighting for re-election, charged that State CIO-PAC Chairman Jack Kroll of Cincinnati "is, as usual, unable to tell the truth" in charging that the senator protested the use of PAC transcripts to Ohio radio stations.

Speaking at Cleveland, Stewart charged that Lausche's indorse-heavy escort, raided synthetic oil plants at Meresburg, in the Ruhr, and the railway yards at Bellefeld and Rheine.

Demonstrating the widespread efforts of the air force to support the grand offensive against the Reich, American and British authorities revealed that nearly 100,000 tons of explosives had been dropped upon enemy target areas during the month of October.

The United States Eighth Air Force, based in England, plastered the Nazis with 43,000 tons of bombs. The American strategic air force in Europe hauled 56,700 tons over Nazi oil plants, rail centers, bridges and industrial factories.

Lull in Italy

Unusually heavy storms brought military operations to a virtual standstill on the Italian front, but in the east, Russian troops hurled invincible armor and infantry to within 20 miles of Budapest. Panic was reported to have broken out in the Hungarian capital.

The Soviet newspaper Red Star reported that business men, factory owners and wealthier persons are fleeing from the city which lies now within range of heavy cannon.

Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian Army occupied more than 60 towns, between the Tisza and Danube rivers in the drive on Budapest. The Soviet newspaper reported that Malinovsky's forces, which took the railway town of Doornik, 21 miles south of the city, are in pursuit of entire German-Hungarian divisions.

Generals Lucky

Luck was on the side of American generals today, and the two of them—General Douglas MacArthur and Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton—carried on unfazed after close brushes with death. An 11-inch German shell exploded within 30 yards of General Patton somewhere in France. It was his second close shave within a month. A 50 calibre Japanese bullet tore through the wall of General MacArthur's Philippine island headquarters during an enemy strafing attack—and the General stood less than a foot from the spot where the bullet penetrated.

General MacArthur came up in fine fettle after the experience to announce that, "the end of the Leyte-Samar campaign is in sight."

His troops drove forward along the western shores of Leyte against a pocket of Japanese trapped in the Ormoc bay region. The Japanese sustained tremendous casualties and apparently had little chance of escape.

A communique from Pacific fleet headquarters announced a Japanese torpedo boat made an abortive attack on American vessels being unloaded at Peleliu island in the Palau group. The Japanese previously claimed they had staged a counter-invasion of the island, but Admiral Chester W. Nimitz scotched that story simply by ignoring it.

With nothing else to report, the Japanese radio announced that everybody from Emperor Hirohito to the Nipponese populace will tell their ancestor gods about the war today; which happens to be the birthday anniversary of the late Emperor Meiji, the Mikado's granddaddy.

ment by former Gov. Martin L. Davey would turn the people against him.

"The people of Ohio have a long memory and will not forget Davey and his administration," Stewart stated, "nor will they forget that my New Deal opponent bears the indorsement of the Kent tree surgeon."

"You can find no pointing-with-pride to this man, and small wonder. Although it was six years ago, the people remember the malodorous administration of Martin L. Davey. A vote for the New Deal candidate is a vote to foist upon Ohio the days of Davey boodling."

Lausche, at Circleville, demanded to know how Stewart could claim to be real mayor of Cincinnati "when his city pays a manager $25,000 a year."

"He is the nominal mayor of the city, a councilman in fact who commits a fraud upon the voter in pretending that has now, or ever had, important administrative experience."

Lausche also contended that the Republicans were throwing large sums into the campaign "to unfairly influence the campaign and defeat me."

At Columbus, Ray Arganbright, Lausche's capital headquarters chief, predicted that the Cleveland mayor would carry the state by 250,000.

Republican headquarters meanwhile announced that three more newspapers, the Toledo Times, the Dayton Journal and the Dayton Herald, had indorsed Stewart for governor.

This was offset to some extent at least by the support thrown to Lausche by Murray Seasongood, former Republican mayor of Cincinnati and now leader of the opposition chariters, who took to the air last night to urge Lausche's election.

achievements of our American farmers, our American business, and our American labor."

He said that "we all know the record of our team-work with our Allies" and that "we have steadily gone on from that to establish the basis for a strong and durable organization for world peace."

He said the nation could look forward "to the future with confidence and faith."

"I propose the continuance of the team-work that we have demonstrated in this war," he said.

"By carrying out the plans we have made we can avoid a post-war depression—we can provide employment for our veterans and our war workers—we can achieve an orderly reconversion."

"Above all, we can avoid false boom like that which burst in 1929, and a dismal collapse like that of 1930 to 1933."

"With the continuance of our team-work, I look forward, under the leadership of this government, to an era of expansion and production and employment—to new industries and increased security."

He highly praised the part American women are playing in the war, in the armed services, in war industries, and in the home.

SCHOOL CHIEFS PLAN GATHERING OF MILKWEED

Plans for the collection of the milkweed floss gathered by pupils of Pickaway county schools were made at the superintendent's meeting held Thursday afternoon in the courthouse.

State and county trucks will go to each school Thursday and Friday, November 9, 10, to collect the bags of pods. The bags will be taken to the Ross County Nursery and stored there until they can be sent to a federal collection station.

A. A. White, Scioto township superintendent, was elected executive secretary to succeed Pielgard Hansen, former Jackson superintendent, who resigned last April.

Date of the Thanksgiving vacation was set for Thursday and Friday, November 23, 24.

Funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in Beaver for Mrs. Ida Brammer, who died Wednesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eltha Brown, 514 South Scioto street.

Mrs. Brammer, a native of Given station in Pike county, had made her home with her daughter for about a year. She was the widow of the late Albert Brammer.

Besides Mrs. Brown, surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Hazel Armstrong, Dayton, and two sons, Lloyd Brammer, Urbana, and Oris Brammer, Route 1, Waverly.

will have the picture in Philadelphia Saturday, when he meets with Republican leaders there, but he added:

"I think Philadelphia couldn't possibly go bad enough for Roosevelt to carry Pennsylvania."

Two More Speeches

Gov. Dewey's announced schedule for the next four days calls only for a Madison Square Garden speech Saturday night and an election eve "get out and vote" talk, but there is a possibility that a speech will be made by the nominee in New Jersey. That is indefinite, however.

In his speeches last night at Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, Gov. Dewey lashed out again at the "One Thousand Club," asserting that "we want no secret deals either for special influence in the government at home or in our foreign policy abroad."

Declaring that President Roosevelt admitted he "thought up" the idea of the notorious "One Thousand Club," the GOP nominee said the club now is offering "something it doesn't dare put in writing" to those who contribute $1,000 to the Democratic campaign fund.

He produced a letter, written on the stationery of the Democratic National Committee, which he said was sent to a select group in Kansas by "Mr. Roosevelt's special privilege in government society."

He quoted from the letter as follows:

"Membership in this group will be a badge of distinction forever,

There are other advantages which I can explain to you when we meet. Instant action is necessary."

Special Privilege

The Republican nominee said the club "offers in writing to give special privilege to a select group of men who can afford $1,000 for a campaign contribution."

"Then," he added, "it offers something more—something it doesn't dare put in writing. We can only guess what it is."

Gov. Dewey asked if the "special privilege" had to do with war contracts, special concessions on income taxes or special influence with the War Labor Board or the National Labor Relations Board.

"Membership in this group will be a badge of distinction forever,

Special Privilege

The Republican nominee said the club "offers in writing to give special privilege to a select group of men who can afford $1,000 for a campaign contribution."

"Then," he added, "it offers something more—something it doesn't dare put in writing. We can only guess what it is."

Gov. Dewey asked if the "special privilege" had to do with war contracts, special concessions on income taxes or special influence with the War Labor Board or the National Labor Relations Board.

"Membership in this group will be a badge of distinction forever, by several men who attempted to climb the speaker's platform.

"I saw drawn knives and flying fists," O'Daniel said, "but I can't estimate how many casualties there were."

"I completed my speech under great difficulty and the whole shameful business went out over the air."

Garfield Crawford, a former Dallas and Fort Worth newspaperman attached to O'Daniel's staff, said:

"There were plenty of bloody faces and fights raged all over the place. The crowd was so tightly packed that it was hard to see everything that went on."

Crawford said one of the rioters tried to get onto the stage, shouting: "I'll cut O'Daniel's heart out."

"I don't know whether he had a knife or not," Crawford added.

"The audience was very loyal to me," O'Daniel said. "Many of them crowded up on the platform so they could hear what I was saying. Others maintained a tight-packed guard in front of the platform and prevented the rioters from getting near me."

"Meanwhile fights went on all over the hall all the time I was talking."

Sen. O'Daniel, whose term expires Jan. 3, 1949, twice served the Lone Star state as governor. He has been one of the most ardent foes of the New Deal in the Democratic party.

MAN SHORTAGE HITS HARD AT WAR SHIPPING

Delivery Delay To All
Fighting Fronts
Is Anticipated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 — Two war agencies heads warned today that a critical shortage of seamen and officers to man merchant ships in war zones threatens within the next few weeks to delay delivery of supplies to the European and Pacific war theatres.

The announcement, issued by War Shipping Administrator Emory S. Land and War Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt, disclosed that an intensified drive is underway to recruit trained seamen and new personnel for perilous sea duty.

Admiral Land reported that American merchant ships have generally maintained uninterrupted operations, but efficiency and safety have been jeopardized by assignment of men above their grades and the employment in unskilled ratings of "a disproportionately large number" of men without previous sea experience.

Land said that during the last year recruitment of experienced personnel has always been insufficient to replace officers and seamen who have been upgraded. In the past three months, he added, recruitments have "barely met the numbers known to have left the industry during the same period."

"On October 20, while the Philippine invasion was in progress," Land said, "we had in the entire United States only a sufficient number of skilled officers in American seaports able to operate about 10 vessels; whereas on the same day we had requests for enough men in these critical ratings to operate about 45 ships."

"During the past summer we had months in which as many as 600 men leaving American ports as licensed deck officers either had no license, or sailed above the grade for which they were licensed."

"During the same period, there were as many as 1,000 men in one month who had left American ports aboard ships as engineers who had no licenses or were sailing above their grade."

"Unable to secure nearly enough licensed radio operators, we have continued to use enlisted personnel of the Navy to provide a full complement on all vessels."

With approximately 5,000 men required monthly to man new merchant ships, McNutt disclosed plans to secure limited referrals for Great Lakes seamen for offshore service during the winter.

It has been brought to our attention a number of times that my opponent states that there should be a change in the office of Clerk of Courts and that I have been here too long, but one thing he has failed to state is that he held a county job under the Federal AAA practically the same number of years at a substantial salary, as we have been in the Clerk's office. At least this office has more than paid its own way; so it has not cost this county or the taxpayers one penny for running expenses. The first four years we will admit were not so "hot" but after the salaries of the Clerk and Deputy were paid from the money turned into the county treasury from fees, etc. collected, we showed a profit of $443.60 or a little over one hundred dollars a year.

But the next six years we have gone places. After paying all salaries of the Clerk and Deputies, we had a net profit to the county of $6,894.55. In addition, we turned over to the State with no additional cost for its share of lawful fees collected $10,329.55, so the profit above our total salary costs was $17,224.15 or nearly three thousand dollars, each and every year for the last six years.

Do you Mr. and Mrs. Voter believe a new man and a new force could keep that record going? We very much doubt it.

We hope you are fair minded and will do what you think is best for your home county by returning and electing—

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Quite a stack of newspapers I left you yesterday, Judge. Aren't you in the newspaper business, are you?"

"No, I just enjoy reading different papers so my nephew George sends them to me whenever he takes a business trip. I got a big kick out of some he sent me from several counties where they still have prohibition. Particularly from some headlines that read 'Drunk Driving Arrests Rise'."

"Bootleggers must post Ceiling Prices", "Federal Agents seize 'Trick' Liquor Truck". Doesn't that go to prove, Joe, that prohibition does not prohibit?"

"I watched conditions pretty carefully during our 13 years of prohibition in this country. The only thing I could see we got out of it was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor... plus the worst crime and corruption this country has ever known."

Do-nothing Congressman Brehm Who Has Never Done One Single Thing For Pickaway County Tries To Cover Up His Graft By Another Smokescreen

The taxpayers and farmers would like for the dentist-congressman from Logan to pay back the graft money which he admits he owes and stop talking about it.

Innocent people do not deposit checks or try to pay off when caught!

Guilty people always try to cover up and settle when caught!

Where is the "escrow" story now?

Did the dentist lie when he said he had his check in "escrow"?

Now he admits he sent his check after he was caught and the U. S. Treasury would not accept it.

Will the Republicans and Democrats of this District believe this story?

Once upon a time another congressman from Logan and Hocking county started grafting and was immediately turned out of office by the voters of the 11th District.

History will repeat itself on November 7th.

The dentist-congressman calls the farmers and thousands of other patriotic and loyal laboring men and women Communists and Reds because they support Underwood.

This is an insult to all of them.

In view of his record against them, how could they support Brehm?

They support Underwood because Brehm has voted against the farmer, the laboring man and the people.

Because Brehm has tried to fool them by voting both ways on all important public questions.

Because Brehm has ducked and dodged important votes and has hid in the cloak room.

Because Brehm has voted against rural electrification, soil conservation and all legislation that would help the farmers and men and women who work and toil by the sweat of their brow for a living. Also heavier taxes on the farmers and laboring people.

I respectfully ask the "do-nothing" dentist-congressman from Logan to mention one single thing he has ever done for Pickaway County or the 11th District.

He does admit that he has tried to send out a farmers bulletin right at election time.

He must think the farmers are going to plant and sow their crops about November 7th!

He says he has the advice of a common pleas judge and some other big lawyer.

As a lawmaker he ought to know the law himself!

He knows, or ought to know, that common pleas judges are forbidden by law from giving legal advice.

Why doesn't he name the judge and the other big lawyer whom he consulted after being caught?

Dr. Brehm, I still repeat you should quit explaining and pay back the money you owe the taxpayers and the government.

If you do not know the right place to send the money you owe, I will be pleased to advise you free of charge.

I honestly believe the taxpayers and voters, Republicans and Democrats alike, will advise you on November 7th free of charge!

They will not approve or condone graft, dishonesty and chiseling by a congressman who draws $10,000 per year and a total of $17,200 to pay for the running of his office.

It is not smearing a congressman to expose his graft and dishonesty.

It is rendering the taxpayers and voters a service!

If this be Communism, make the most of it!

The Underwood name and Underwood "service" in this District are too well and favorably known by all for you to throw up a smokescreen of Communism.

Let the voters and taxpayers answer by their votes on November 7th.

I am perfectly willing to leave the answer with them.

Again, I repeat you should pay back the money before you ask the men and women to vote again for you.

BRICKER SAYS FDR STAND ON BUSINESS NEW

Friendship Declaration
Described As Pre-Election
Appeasement Program

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—Gov. John W. Bricker carried his campaign into New Jersey, Maryland and Pennsylvania today after challenging President Roosevelt's stated belief in free enterprise as "hardly" convincing to farmers, businessmen or labor.

Making his final circuit of the eastern seaboard, the Republican vice presidential candidate left New York for addresses in Camden, N. J., Wilmington, Md., and Philadelphia following closely on a speech in Patterson, N. J., last night in which he attacked the New Deal's economic record.

The Ohio governor described President Roosevelt's current statements on business as a "pre-election appeasement program" and accused the chief executive of paying lip service to free enterprise.

"If Mr. Roosevelt believes in free enterprise, in exceptional rewards for business risks, he takes strange and devious ways of showing it," Gov. Bricker said.

He added that the President's statement in Chicago last Saturday stating a belief in free enterprise will "hardly sound convincing to the regimented farmer, to the controlled workman, to the bankrupt little business man, to the over-taxed corporation and to the white-collar worker whose salary has been frozen."

Referring to the Montgomery Ward controversy last year, Bricker accused the President of making the Chicago statement "in the very shadow of a non-war business which he took over with armed troops."

Tracing what he termed the contradictory record of the New Deal, Bricker said President Roosevelt and his advisers embarked on "a program of management" of business in 1932.

"It was dominating and incoherent management," he continued. "Instead of expanding capacity, they destroyed it. They forced the destruction of livestock and they

PICKAWAY COUNTY VS. CUYAHOGA COUNTY

Through Governor Bricker's fine management, Ohio has built up a surplus of almost $100,000,000 to be used in postwar work.

You will remember that while this surplus was accumulating various delegations from Cleveland came to Columbus to try to get the biggest part of it for Cleveland, while at the same time there were dollars upon dollars of delinquent taxes on the tax books of that county, which the authorities of Cuyahoga County failed to collect, while we in the small counties PAID our taxes.

Evidently if Lausche is elected Governor, it will be goodbye surplus, as no doubt Cleveland will get the most of this money.

UNREAL POLITICS

WALTER Lippmann says that "most of the political campaigning seems to him repulsive in its irrelevancies, its calous unawareness of the great matters of life and death that the American people are actually dealing with." He seems to find a gulf between politics and reality. Doubtless many Americans feel likewise, although they may be less capable of expressing what they feel.

Surely to men and women who can stand off a little from the stress of politics and the fight for office, and view clearly this national and international struggle for the survival of freedom and opportunity, it is a great period of history and a great opportunity for the triumph of freedom. But all good things have to be fought for. A freer and better world is not going to be handed to any nation on a cosmic platter. Even such extensive freedom as our own nation has so long enjoyed is not going to preserve its liberties unless it is everlastingly on the job, at home and abroad.

Democracy is not mere politics. It is not mere party loyalty. It is a spirit and faith and a process which seeks not only personal freedom, but freedom for all. It is something that can be associated with party, but is above party. As the Scripture says, "the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life." It is the ancient spirit of free loyalty that makes this nation what it is, and might make it still greater.

BACK TO PIPES

"HAS any good thing come out of this war?" asks a newspaper man. And in the ensuing silence he answers his own question. "Yes," he says.

"Men smoking pipes again. Look around here, in the news room. You can still see and smell some cigarettes, but the pipes are gaining right along. And as an old timer, it gives me a lift. Newspaper men were men, in the days when every man-jack of 'em wrote his copy with a pipe in his teeth."

Well, be that as it may, the trend is evident. As cigarettes grow scarcer, women may suffer without recourse, but men in steadily growing numbers seem to be coming back to the pipes of a generation ago. The pipe has its faults, smokers admit. It is more troublesome to smoke than a cigarette. But it seems to cost less, and the pipe smoker insists that it not only lasts longer but tastes better. But there is no agreement about it, and some serious controversy.

Most Americans would not believe it if told that the United States does not encourage public education. Yet, according to the American Library Association, nearly 35,000,000 people in the country are without public service.

The country has gained since the last war. There has been no attempt to disguise that old dinner-table staple, sauerkraut, under the name of Liberty Cabbage.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

FINDS FARMING TOUGH

(Editor's Note:—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his sister, Mrs. Gordon Lang, at Swarthmore, Pa., after he had spent some time on his farm in Maryland.)

WASHINGTON—My dear sister: I have been out on the farm, where you can think a lot of things more important than politics, and where we have finally finished bringing in the Lespedeza. You know, Lespedeza is one of the good things the Japs brought to this country—an excellent type of hay. I'll bet this was the latest hay crop ever harvested in this part of Maryland.

We got delayed first of all by the new silo. The only place I could get a silo was in Kalamazoo, Mich. They promised to send it in a hurry, but it didn't come, and didn't come. Meanwhile, the corn was getting ripe, and I was cussing out the railroads and the way Mr. Roosevelt was handling things.

Finally, the silo tiles arrived, but not the silo hoops. Somehow or other, the bureaucrats held the hoops out on me for three more weeks, so we didn't get the silo built until late August, by which time the corn was almost bone dry. Despite that, we started cutting it. That is, we tried to start. But by that time, the labor which had promised to help had gone off to other jobs.

I then arranged to get some German prisoners from Camp Meade, but every time they were due to come, it would rain. It hadn't rained much all summer, but just when we were ready to bring in the corn, it rained and rained. However, we finally got the German prisoners. The first bunch was pretty good, but the second wouldn't work.

So I brought part of the office force out and put them to work in the cornfield. Mrs. P. drove a truck. Hal Horan of Times Magazine, who thought he had come down for a vacation, found himself working two inches off his waistline. Even his wife cut two acres of corn.

Well, we finally got the corn in the silo by which time it was already late for the hay. Then it rained some more—and kept on raining. Every time we'd get some hay cut and all raked, it would rain again. At long last, however, the hay is in the barn, but now Henry is going to quit and I have to find a new dairyman.

FARMER VERSUS COLUMNIST

All of which makes you realize how tough it is to be a farmer. Tough as it is, however, I sure would a lot rather be a farmer than a newspaper columnist at election time. Sometimes I almost think the British are right, and that it's cheaper to have a king.

Actually, of course, it's a great tribute to our democracy that it can pull through all this name-calling, and it will—even if readers do call a columnist all the names in the phone book before it's over, and even if editors, usually most tolerant, do get jittery and temperamental.

I dropped in to chat with an editor out in Ponca City, Okla., some time ago. At the time I went into his office, I considered myself no amateur critic of Mr. Roosevelt. At least, I knew that Mr. Roosevelt considered me no amateur. I had watched him close-up for twelve long years and thought I knew a lot of the things that were wrong with him.

But before I had talked to that Ponca City editor for fifteen minutes, I found I didn't know anything. He knew more about what was wrong with Roosevelt than all the newsmen in Washington put together. (Continued on Page Ten)

WASHINGTON Report

Old Capitol Guide Book's Labor Situation Is Tough
Title Still Usable Today For Gentleman Farmer, Too

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—"The Sights and Secrets of the National Capital and Its Environs" haven't changed so much in mood since a knowing gentleman named Dr. John H. Ellis wrote a work "Descriptive of Washington City in All Its Phases" in 1869 at the end of the Civil war. Dr. Ellis gave his green-backed volume, thick with dim steel engravings, the intriguing title with which I commenced this paragraph.

"The Sights and Secrets of the National Capital" would be a good title for a Washington Columnist. It is a title that means so much. And so little, too.

Country One of today's significant "sights" in the "What Life the Are We Going to Do About Labor Situation" is the incident reported to me by a gentleman farmer friend in Prince George's county, just over the District line.

The gentleman farmer was driving between his fields of fodder-in-the-shock and infant winter wheat feeling that country life was the real life. Sitting beside him at the wheel of the little car was a newly got and very costly helper. Of the kind that used to be called "hired hand."

Suddenly, from behind a fence there arose a terrified squealing followed by the sudden rush of animals tearing off in opposite directions. "The pigs are out! The pigs are out!" shouted the gentleman farmer to his helper. "Stop the car, William. Help me round them up." "I'll stop the car," replied William. "But I can do nothing to stop the pigs. I'm not an animal man."

● CAME UPON A LIGHT FELLOW at dinner the other night who said, "Not only am I not offended at the name-calling speeches the two presidential candidates are making at each other—but I can hardly wait for the boys to get down to real mud-slinging."

"Nothing cheers me like a dirty political campaign. Especially now when there is so much that is awful to think about. Bring on the below the belt stuff, I say. I like fist fights, too. Shows we Four F's who are too old or too poorly to go to war, can stir up red-blooded stuff at home."

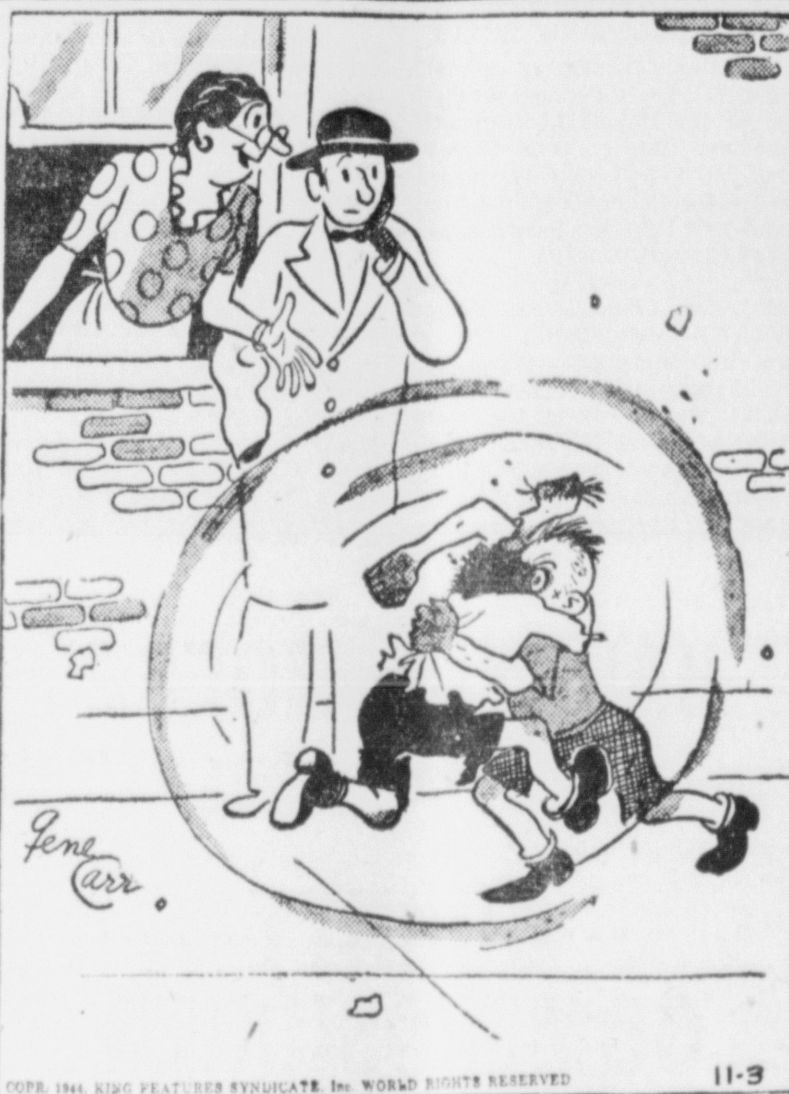

● MRS. EVELYN WALSH McLEAN'S "FRIENDSHIP HOUSE" is evidently one of the "Sights of the National Capital."

The driver of a pick-up taxi was showing it lighted up for dinner on Sunday night to a cab full of Georgetown riders.

"See that big house up there on the hill? Well, that's where the owner of the Hope diamond lives. Everybody knows about her. Say, the way she mixes up friends and enemies at her parties is something to write home about. She don't mind having a couple hundred people into dinner. Ambassadors, vice presidents, all kinds of big shots. She's a hum-dinger. Why else?"

"Will you please stop here," spoke up a slightly embarrassed voice. "You see—er—I am going to Mrs. McLean's." It took the driver almost a half a block to catch his conversational breath after his fare had left.

Heart Is Sturdy Even If Damaged

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

THE HEART has the reputation of being the part of the body physiologic which gives up the easiest and the soonest. When the heart stops all stops—that at least is true. People in general are terribly frightened about getting heart disease, because to them that spells the end of everything, and that is partly true and partly false. It is true that people are afraid of getting heart disease, but it is not true that if they do, that is the end of everything. I have known, and every physician has known, people who have had grave heart disease for years, and did their daily work even a day's washing in spite of it and lived to a ripe old age in spite of it too.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

This bad reputation the heart has acquired of being a weakling is totally undeserved. It is a very tough old party indeed, and makes adjustments, and adapts itself to changed conditions, makes the best of a bad jam when it happens to be damaged, and keeps on ticking along and very cheerily indeed. People along about my age tell me with a woe-begone countenance that last night in bed they heard their heart turn over. Which reminds me of a story some war correspondent told about riding in a truck which was carrying a load of bombs, or hand grenades. The sergeant who was driving the truck was nonchalant to say the least, and would bang it over bumps to the detriment of the journalists artistic temperament. So he finally said to the sergeant—"I keep hearing those bombs rattling and I think hissing." And the sergeant said—"Yea—well the time to begin worrying is when you don't hear them." The time to begin worrying about your heart is when you don't hear it.

The Damaged Heart
If you got all the organs of the body together and turned some poison gas into the chamber probably the last one to quit operating would be the heart. The brain, that strong, massive, masterful, unshakable director of your destiny would probably be the first to wilt. "The damaged heart is heralded far and wide as the greatest cause of death," says Dr. Paul D. White, of Boston, "outstripping competitors, such as tuberculosis, pneumonia and cancer. An uncritical, one-sided publicity has sprouted tens of thousands of heart neuroses in otherwise healthy persons and ruined the morale and crippled the lives of thousands of persons with heart trouble but with no reason to be 'heart crippled.'"

"The heart has been too much set on a pedestal as the essential organ in the body when actually it is only one of many and at that one of the toughest, most resistant and most capable of recovery after serious damage."

Enlarged Heart

Take the question of enlarged heart. People who are told on a life insurance examination they have an enlarged heart often come rushing to a doctor to have something done about it. The fact is the enlarged heart is the safeguard of their health. The heart is merely a mechanical pump, but nature has provided it with an extremely complex sort of muscle which responds in the most delicate way to the demands made on it. When the mechanics of the pumping part of the heart—the valves—become damaged it means more work has to be done by the heart muscle. It responds to these demands by miraculously getting larger.

"Compensation" is a word often on the heart specialist's lips. It means that the heart has met its difficulties and compensated for them, so that the circulation of the blood is carried on even in spite of those mechanical difficulties. A compensated heart is in no danger, and even an uncompensated heart can be patched up for years.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
K. L.:—Is it harmful to the heart to sleep on the left side?

Answer: No. Everyone unconsciously changes posture in sleep about every half hour, so the left side gets its share of sleeping on for everybody and no harm done.

B. B. B.:—What are the causes of a cyst? The symptoms? Does it ever return after removal?
Answer: A cyst is a collection of fluid surrounded by a wall of tissue. There are many different kinds. One is the wen on the skin. One is ovarian cyst. As to symptoms, cysts seldom cause pain but make themselves known by growth. They do not return if completely removed.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Drue was shivering. I took her hands again and held them tightly. And thought hard.

"You're not to tell about the hypodermic. Not tell anyone." Her hands clung to mine. Her eyes, dark with horror, searched my face. "They'll say I murdered him," she whispered. "Is that what you're afraid of?"

I had to tell her, then. "Listen, Drue. I lost the syringe. That is, I didn't lose it. I hid it and someone found it and took it away."

There was a sharp silence. In the next room Craig slept heavily. Outside, rain and sleet whispered against the windows. Drue whispered stiffly, "Who...?"

"I don't know. I hid it in the fern; I guessed what you had done; I didn't want them to know. It's gone now, so someone must have seen me hide it. I don't know who. But it's gone, and your fingerprints are on it. They can easily prove it was yours; there will be traces of digitalis in it."

After a long moment Drue said with a kind of incredulous horror, "didn't murder him. I didn't... But if he was murdered, they ought to know what I gave him and how much."

She stared at me with a kind of terror for a moment, then shook her head. "No. I'd better tell them exactly what I did."

It frightened me, but more than anything it exasperated me. "All right," I snapped. "Go ahead and tell them you murdered him! That's exactly what it will amount to. Or shall I tell them? Craig may come to see you in jail but I doubt it."

"There's a time for nobility, Drue. But this isn't the time. However, if you're bent on making a martyr of yourself I won't stop you. Heaven knows it's nothing to me. You make me come here; I didn't know I was walking into anything like this. I'm going home unless they stop me. You can do exactly as you please."

"Sarah..." She caught my arms. "Sarah, I'm not that kind of fool."

"Oh, yes, you are. I can see it."

"No. No." Her hands dropped away from my arms. She stared down at the dressing table with its tiny little lamp and crystal bottles.

"I won't tell them. I cannot believe that he was murdered. I saw him. Yet if—oh, you're right, of course."

"Certainly, I'm right." I paused thoughtfully. "Did you use all the supply of digitalis you had, Drue?"

"No. Only enough..."

"We ought to get rid of the rest of it."

"But Sarah, when—if I eventually tell them about it, as I may have to do..."

"I know. It might look guilty. But I think it's better to get rid of the rest of the digitalis now in the hope it needn't ever come out—about the hypodermic, I mean. Some policeman might get his hands on the digitalis; Chivery may see the hypodermic mark. No, no, Drue, it's better to dispose of the rest of the digitalis now. I'll do it..."

"No," she said quickly. "I'd better do it myself. I know exactly what it is. I'll go. Now."

So she went, leaving me perplexed by the look of sharp anxiety in her face. It was as if she had remembered something she didn't want me to know about—which was nonsense, of course. What could there be in her room, in the little nursing bag, anywhere in the house, which she wanted to keep a secret?

When presently she came back, slipping quietly into the room while I was sitting beside Craig, I whispered, "Did you get it?"

Her face looked very white and her breath was coming quickly; her hand was in her pocket. She shook her head. "They were already there. They... Sarah—they've got your little black bag—you know; and mine. I saw a policeman go downstairs with them. Oh, Sarah..."

We stared at each other across Craig's bed, and rain whispered against the windows. Finally, I had to say, "Never mind. It doesn't prove anything. Don't worry."

Digitalis. And they had thought of us, nurses, and had taken the little instrument and medicine bags to search even before they could possibly have got results from the autopsy. I didn't like that, but I didn't tell Drue. Craig slept and the rain beat down and there was no way of knowing what the police were doing, what Alexia was doing and Nicky, or Maud. Waiting, too, I imagined, as we were waiting.

I couldn't then try to discover the syringe. If the person who had found it in the fern (who must have seen me place it there) had taken it to the police then we were already lost.

If it was murder, then who? Who had shot Craig? Who had killed his father?

I had ensconced myself on the couch in front of the fire by that time, feeling that since we could accomplish nothing by further talk, Drue and I, I might as well try to get some sleep.

Just as I was about to catch the tail of a nap I began to think again of the telephone call to the police. Who had called them? And more important—tremendously important—why?

In that answer, I thought suddenly, with that queerly elusive clarity one discovers on the edge of sleep, might lie the answer to the whole ugly problem. After that I was wide awake for what was left of the night.

Craig slept heavily and seemed none the worse of his mysterious peregrinations; Drue sat in an armchair near the bed with her stretched cap off and her hair a little rumpled from pressing her head back against the cushions of the chair—her face pale, her eyes very dark, watching Craig's sleeping face broodingly. It rained all that night, rain and sleet and rain again. We could hear nothing of what was going on in the house. Twice I got up and tiptoed into the hall, once going down the stairs, pausing again at the fern. But the syringe was really gone.

The hall below was deserted, but Nicky Senour and Peter Huber were sitting in the morning room in front of the fire, smoking. There were stars twinkling in the library; I went down into the hall and as far as the library door. No one stopped me and I wanted to see what they were doing.

I was little wiser for my pains but convinced, if I had not been before, that they were in earnest about an investigation. For they had been taking fingerprints from smooth surfaces in the room; they had been using a tiny hand vacuum on furniture and rugs; the decanter of brandy had been removed; there were chalked crosses on the sofa and on the rug indicating, I thought, the position of Conrad Brent's body. Pictures had been taken. The body of Conrad Brent had been removed.

Two troopers were still there, one of them writing shorthand notes. The other, blowing a small cloud of yellowish powder from a contrivance that looked like a tiny bellows upon one of the wooden panels across the room on the right side of the fireplace—a panel that I saw then, was actually a swinging door leading into a tiny washroom, for I could see walls tiled in shining, pale green beyond. He turned to look at me and the trooper with the tablet stopped writing to look at me, too. There being no welcome in either look but rather the contrary, I retreated; anyway I had seen all I wanted to see. Nicky looked up as I passed through the hall but did not stop me. Peter however came out.

"Have you told Craig?" he asked. "No."

"What's not for a while. Mr. Huber? You remember—while you were calling the doctor. Did you find out about it?"

He frowned; his face looked tired and worried. "I didn't find anybody," he said. "From the sound I thought a window had been broken somewhere. I looked all along the hall leading toward the back of the house. But I found nothing to account for it."

"Could there have been someone intruder? A thief, perhaps?" Peter shrugged. "I don't know. I'll tell the police about it. I take it Craig is all right?"

"Oh, yes."

"They took him away—Conrad Brent, I mean. I suppose they are doing an autopsy now."

Nicky watched, bright eyes intensely curious, as I took my way upstairs again. That must have been about four or five o'clock—a cold, gray February dawn. By six Craig hadn't wakened. At about seven, dressed in his right mind as well as trousers and dark sack coat, brought Drue and me some coffee and toast. Breakfast would be along soon, he said; in the meantime he thought we might enjoy the coffee. He spoke to me and looked at Drue with a kind of sympathy. Naturally all the servants knew of her position in that household. Perhaps the romance of it appealed to them, but I think they liked her, too.

West led his spade 9 to the 10 and Q, and East switched at once to the diamond 9 to lead through strength and up to that weakness in the dummy. South put on the 10, which forced the J from West. The latter then laid down his diamond A and South, sure that East could ruff the next round, promptly put on his K after East played the 4. West was sure South would not play that K, so switched then to the spade 8, the J forcing the

A and causing it to get ruffed.

South then dropped trumps in a couple of rounds, led the club K to be overtaken by the A, and on the spade K discarded his diamond 6, laughing with great glee at the discomfiture of his opponents, who had made him a gift of his contract by not leading a third diamond which East could ruff.

"I didn't think he'd false card with the K in that spot," pleaded West, "if he had it guarded."

"You didn't need to think," answered East. "If you had watched my diamond plays, you would have seen me lead the 9 and then play the 4 on the next lead. If I had held the 6 I would have played it on the second trick, instead of the bottom one, which should have told you I was out of the suit and could ruff the third round."

The shack was cleverly decorated for the occasion with typical Halloween decorations. Marilyn Winner and James Starkey won prizes in the contest and many games were enjoyed by the group. A seasonal lunch was served.

Emmett's Chapel Aid

Mrs. Philip Wilson, Pickaway township, assisted by Mrs. Austin Wilson, entertained Emmett's Chapel W. S. C. S. with 32 members and visitors present. The Rev. Sam C. Elsea conducted the devotionals. It was voted to donate $10 to the War Chest.

It was announced that the society had sent boxes to six boys from Pickaway township, or who had lived in that community, but who are now in German prison camps. Fifteen boxes will be sent at Christmas time to boys in the hospital at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., who otherwise would not be remembered. The society sponsored a like project in 1943, the names of the boys being sent by Colonel Harry D. Jackson, of North Scioto street, who is stationed at that camp.

It was decided to have an all-day meeting in November at the church with sewing for the Red Cross planned for the day.

Miss Gladys Rader was chosen as president when officers for the coming year were elected. Others selected were Mrs. John Gehres, vice president; Mrs. Harry Sohn, secretary; Mrs. John Miller, treasurer; Mrs. Sam Dearth, recording secretary.

Mrs. Fairy Alkire provided an interesting program and refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Pictorial Record Of A Promise Kept—"We Will Return To The Philippines"

THE PANORAMA ABOVE shows the beginning of the greatest land invasion to be effected in the history of the war. Men and vehicles under personal command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur pour ashore from landing craft onto the beaches of Leyte island, the selected doorway to the Jap-held islands. No welcome mat was out as is evidenced by the charging approach of the "guests." Huge forces advanced quickly, securing the island's capital city of Tacloban. (International Soundphoto)

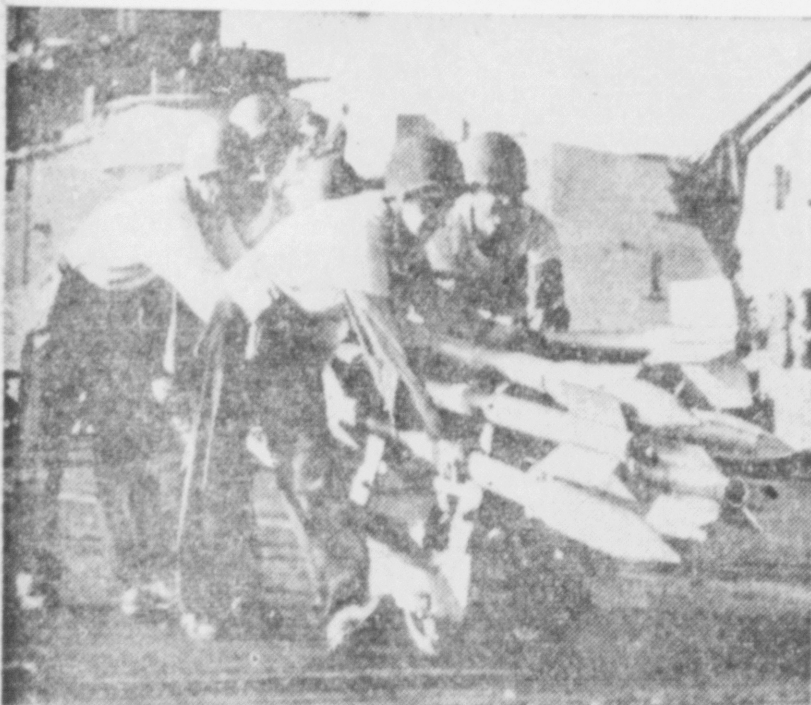

THE CUMAX of the grand-scale military operation, which put American forces on the soil of the Philippine islands, was the landing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, himself. The general, who commanded the mammoth amphibious forces to keep a promise he had made nearly three years ago, when the Japanese forced his escape from Corregidor, is pictured above center, wading ashore with Lt. Gen. Richard Sutherland, chief of Staff to MacArthur. (International Soundphoto)

DIETRICH WOWS GI'S IN BARN

ROLL OUT ROCKETS FOR JAP TARGET

INFLATION MONEY FLOODS GREECE

LIKE STREET VENDORS selling shoelaces or hot-dogs, sidewalk merchants in Athens deal out small change for the inflation money now circulated in Greece. Value of money changes from hour to hour and one recent quotation set drachmas value at eight trillion to every gold sovereign of $4.85. Hence, an armload of paper money buys little. (International)

GI AND CHAPLAIN--FROM WAR'S MUD TO MASS

FLYING BEAUTY IS THE NEW A-26 INVADER

FASTEST AND MOST VERSATILE of American-built planes is the new A-26 Invader—the Douglas attack bomber shown above. It is a light all-purpose plane, beautiful in line and, from recent combat reports, this new-comer has behaved brilliantly, no matter what the mission assigned to it. It can strike from tree-top altitude and is said to combine heavy firepower with bomb capacity. (International)

ELEANOR GOES A-SHOPPING

MAKING THE CHRISTMAS shopping season official, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt appears at Arnold Constables' in New York and stops for a chat with Santa Claus, who, behind those whiskers, is Ed Nannery. The first lady looks over a selection of dolls and other toys no doubt with thoughts of her grandchildren in mind. (International)

Fast Work on Japs

COMDR. DAVID McCAMPBELL of Los Angeles made a speedy job of it when he bagged nine Jap planes and scored two probables in 95 minutes of recent air-fighting over the Philippines. His record now adds up to 30 enemy planes, making him the Navy's top fighter plane pilot. Navy photo. (International)

Admits Murder

WILLIAM LUALIEN, above, convicted serving a 10 to 25-year sentence in Indiana state prison for burglary, has confessed the whiskey bottle murder of WAC Cpl. Maoma L. Ridings, Aug. 28, 1943, in an Indianapolis hotel, according to Indianapolis police. A court order is being sought to give Lualien, who had accused his former wife of the crime, a mental examination. ## "Job Well Done"

ELATED over the successful American landings on Leyte during the first few hours of the invasion, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, left, embraces Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of ground forces in Philippines. (International)

PLAY IT SAFE!

Why take any chances on not having all your equipment in good running order next season when you can have it all fixed up now. That's our business—expert repairs on any tractor, implement or tool used in farming. We have the mechanics, the special shop equipment and a big stock of genuine IHC parts to do your work right.

The main thing is to give us a little advance notice when you can. Most of the time our shop is swamped but when we know ahead of time we can schedule your jobs and have your machines ready when you want them.

Just give us a ring. Then when you're coming in, on the next trip, load up your tractor or any other piece of equipment and drop it off here. You'll find our service as good as the McCormick-Deering machines we sell. Our prices are reasonable. And we guarantee your satisfaction.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

In fact, there wasn't anything right with him.

And the longer that editor talked, the sorer I got to feeling for Mr. Roosevelt, until, by the time I left, I was definitely taking his side.

Sometimes I wonder if that isn't one trouble with some of the newspaper critics in this campaign today. Some of them are so bitter that people discount what they say.

CRITICISM OF ADMINISTRATION

Looking back over the years, I can remember a whole of a lot of criticism I have leveled at the Roosevelt Administration—day-in-and-day-out—exposés, beginning with Jimmy Roosevelt's insurance deals even before the 1933 inauguration and the kit bag deal just after the inauguration, exposés which sent some leading Louisiana Democrats to jail until the White House stopped the prosecution; also how Mr. Hull was letting airplanes be shipped to Germany in violation of a treaty even in 1938; and the tragic fumbling of the Spanish Civil War, the long-time refusal to recognize de Gaulle, and his knuckling under to Churchill on India.

Three years before Mr. Dewey talked about it, I pointed and kept on pointing to the cabinet's quarrelsome old men; also exposed the danger of a rubber and tire shortage early enough to have prevented it; raised Cain over Secretary of War Woodring's delay in ordering airplanes; and criticized a whole host of other things, including the firing of Sumner Welles and the bungling of Russian relations, which criticism the White House certainly resented—vigorously, publicly, in blunt words hurled straight in my direction.

Starting time for the contest has not been changed with the kickoff scheduled for 8 p. m.

Unless last minute changes are made the Tiger starters will be: Sims, Freck Heath, Jack Hennis and Leonard Hill, in the backfield; Jim Dade, Dave Gillis, Jim Wells, Eugene Richardson, Bob Lovensheimer, Harry Connolly and Dudley Coffland on the line.

The only other card game on the week-end card finds Wilberforce at Jefferson City, Mo., against Lincoln University.

Another of the top clashes of the day sends Case against the University of Rochester, N. Y., at Rochester. The Scientists will be trying to give Ohio schools a 3 to 1 edge over the easterners.

But the feature bout among the smaller schools will be played right in the shadow of the Ohio State-Indiana struggle. Those old-time rivals, Capital and Otterbein, will clash on Otterbein's home lot at Westerville. This one's a toss up. Both teams have won three decisions and dropped one. Both have scored 77 points, but the Caps rate a slight edge on the defensive, having allowed their four opponents only 45 points while Otterbein has given up 60.

Wooster, which produced last week's surprise of surprises in holding Baldwin-Wallace to a 20-0 tie, will be seeking its first victory in playing host to Oberlin, last year's Ohio collegiate king.

TIGERS WIND UP HOME GRIDIRON SEASON TONIGHT

Red And Black Will Be Trying For Perfect Local Record

With good weather promised largest crowd of the season is expected to turn out Friday night when the Circleville high school Tigers make their last home appearance of the season.

Homecoming and Dad's day programs will contribute greatly to the interesting game expected when the Tigers clash with Grove City. Special events, preceding the game and at halftime, will be in charge of the Stooze club.

The Tigers will be trying extra hard to bounce back from their first defeat of the season, suffered last week at Greenfield. A victory Friday night would provide for a 16-13 defeat last season in addition to giving the Tigers a perfect home record this season.

Most of the members of the Tiger squad were in good shape for the contest. Several suffered bumps and bruises last week but have recovered and the team is expected to be at near top strength. Quarterback Leon Sims may not be able to play a full game but his leg has responded to treatment and he expects to take his usual place in the lineup.

For 11 seniors and some juniors who more than likely will be on Uncle Sam's team soon, the contest will mark their last appearance on the CHS gridiron. They will be giving all-out efforts to make their last game here their best.

Starting time for the contest has not been changed with the kickoff scheduled for 8 p. m.

Unless last minute changes are made the Tiger starters will be: Sims, Freck Heath, Jack Hennis and Leonard Hill, in the backfield; Jim Dade, Dave Gillis, Jim Wells, Eugene Richardson, Bob Lovensheimer, Harry Connolly and Dudley Coffland on the line.

Record Assembly Cheers Democratic Candidates At Rally

FRANK LAUSCHE MAKES APPEAL FOR ELECTION

Assembly Hears Mrs. Pickrel, Mell Underwood, Radio Talk By Roosevelt

An overflow crowd, packed in and around Memorial hall, attended the last big event of the political campaign, the Democratic rally held Thursday night.

Many persons were unable to get into the hall to hear the prominent speakers here for the occasion. The attendance at the rally, sponsored by the Pickaway county Democrat committees and the Democratic Women's Club, was described as the largest crowd ever to attend a local rally.

Carl Leist, chairman of the executive committee, presided and introduced the speakers. Mayor Frank J. Lausche, candidate for governor; Mrs. William G. Pickrel, speaking in behalf of her husband, candidate for U. S. senator; Mell G. Underwood, Jr., candidate for representative to congress; Mrs. Lena Seifert, chairman of the Federated Democratic Women's clubs of Ohio; Fred Steffan, REA representative; Earl C. Reed, candidate for state senator; J. W. Schieser, candidate for state representative, and candidates for county offices.

Lausche Speaks
Mayor Lausche said he would aid the farmer in every way possible if he is elected. "When I am governor I intend to appoint a dirt farmer as director of agriculture to insure in my administration the continual presentation of the viewpoint of experienced, wise and practical farmers," he declared. "I will use the influence of my administration to aid the farmer in his efforts to procure electricity to help him make his farm more productive, to make the life of his family more rich. I intend to urge extension wherever possible of all the modern necessities to our agricultural areas."

He called attention to his experience as mayor and said his opponent had a city manager to handle finances for him. He declared:

Discusses Stewart
"My opponent is permitting a deliberate deception of the voter in calling himself mayor. He is not the administrative head of a city government, as I am. He is not in charge of large administrative departments like the utilities department, which in Cleveland operates water systems, sewage systems and an electric light plant, the safety department, the service department, which cleans and repairs streets and collects garbage and rubbish. He is in fact a member of the city council of Cincinnati with no administrative authority of any consequence. The city of Cincinnati pays him $6,000 a year and to another man, the city manager who is the actual administrative head of the city government, it pays $25,000. In my city I have no city manager. I am, like my opponent, responsible for the ceremonial functions of the mayor's office, but I have also complete responsibility for all departments."

Repeats Charges
He repeated his charges that his opponent was controlled by Ed Schor and predicted voters "will reject my opponent because they want no recurrence of bad government in this state."

Mrs. Pickrel said that "in this campaign we are against an opponent for whom was spent $168,000 for his last election." She stated that in her opinion such expenditures of large amounts by wealthy persons for political office was harmful to our form of government and urged her listeners to vote against Mr. Taft to discourage such spending.

She outlined Mr. Pickrel's views on agriculture, stating: "Agriculture should be placed on a parity with labor and industry. . . . The farmers suffered a drastic decline in prices of farm products immediately following the first World War and that must be avoided at the conclusion of the present war. Mr. Pickrel promises to work with the senators who are friends of agriculture and not against them, as Senator Taft has done in the past."

She attacked Senator Taft's record on soldier voting. She stated her husband favors increased salaries for school teachers and would support federal aid to insure funds to meet the increased cost. Mr. Underwood attacked the record of his opponent and said: "The people will resolve on election day the question of whether they want to place their future in the hands of a leadership that lost the peace after the last war or preserve the leadership that warned of the Hitler menace, armed our nation and is leading the country to victory."

"Farmers, business men and laboring men of Pickaway county and of the nation know the breadlines, starvation wages, bankruptcies, three cent hogs, nine cent oats and 25 cent wheat will never happen under a liberal government for all the people," he declared.

The audience also listened to a 15-minute radio talk given by President Roosevelt.

Following the program members of the Democratic Women's Club served barbecue sandwiches and coffee. Decorations of the hall also were in the charge of the women.

Music was furnished by the Circleville high school band, under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein. The band played several numbers downtown, then marched to the hall.
